

HOW TO END WITH GENDER VIOLENCE

Nowadays, there are many women who are abused by their husbands but what can we do to solve it? In my opinion, it is necessary to make people aware to avoid it and have it very controlled.

First of all, we should make children aware because they are the future generations. In addition, recently, children are more male-chauvinist so we must make children aware to avoid a setback in culture. Furthermore, many people affirm that if we make children aware since they are young in the future there will have more equality. For example, the woman will earn the same money as the man. In my view, it is necessary to remove the things that promote male-chauvinism like reggaeton music since children listen to that music frequently.

Second, the authority must control gender violence. The police do their job well. But sometimes it is not enough as when a batterer goes out of prison, he may injure his ex wife. Furthermore, apart from that, police, lawyers and psychologists must help too, for example, the psychologists must make conferences to warn people since, like people sometimes say, if it hurts, it is not love. In addition, when a woman is battered, it is necessary she goes with her family so that they take care of her.

In conclusion, to avoid gender violence we must make people aware and help the women who are injured by their husbands. In my opinion, if we do that, gender violence will disappear.

Samuel Ávila Sánchez (1º Bachillerato A)